Late Mobster's View of JFK Killing

From the grave, the gangster who accepted the CIA mission to kill Cuban President Fidel Castro has cried out that the plot backfired against President John F. Kennedy.

Police believe the late John Roselli was rubbed out, gangland-style, to keep him from talking. But unknown to his executioners, he had already told the startling tale to his attorney, Edward P. Morgan, a former FBI official, who tipped off the FBI on March 20, 1967.

We have obtained a confidential FBI report quoting Morgan's cautious account. Because of attorney-client privilege, he did not identify his informant to the FBI. But he has now acknowledged to us that the details came from Roselli.

Morgan told the FBI that his client, with "the highest government approval," had plotted to assassinate Castro. Even to the FBI, this was explosive news in 1967. But Morgan's next statement was even more explosive.

Recounted the FBI report: "The project almost reached fruition when Castro became aware of it and arrested a number of suspects. By pressuring captured suspects, he was able to learn the full details of the plot against him."

The Cuban leader, as the supreme irony, decided to turn the tables. "He too could engage in the same tactics," Morgan recounted to the FBI. "Castro thereafter employed teams of individuals who were dispatched to the United States for the purpose of assassinating President Kennedy."

Morgan explained to the FBI that his clients had planted informants "in key posts . . . close to Castro." The clients learned about the counterplot, said Morgan, from "feedback" from these confidential informants.

Added the FBI report: "[Morgan] further described how one client, when hearing the statement that Lee Harvey Oswald was the sole assassin of President Kennedy 'laughs with tears in his eyes and shakes his head in apparent disagreement.'"

Morgan had Roselli's permission to pass on the tip but not the specifics to the FBI. Now that the mobster is dead, Morgan told us he could identify his informant and confirm the story. "Roselli told me very definitely and dramatically about the feedback he got from Cuba on the counterplot against President Kennedy," Morgan said.

Fidel Castro has denied repeatedly and emphatically that he had anything to do with Kennedy's murder. But Roselli had confided the same story to us, albeit in less certain terms.

We first encountered the debonair Roselli more than seven years ago. We were investigating his role in the CIA plot to assassinate Castro.

The CIA case officer, William Harvey, told us that Roselli had been the hero of the abortive adventure. Harvey broke his oath of secrecy because he thought it might help Roselli, who was in trouble with the law. The CIA agent had nothing but praise for Roselli's daring.

In the strictest of confidence, Roselli himself confirmed that he had directed six assassination attempts against Castro. We protected his confidence, so he came to trust us. We were the only newsman he would talk to.

Speaking cryptically from a lifetime of Mafia habit, Roselli told us the same basic story that he had outlined to his attorney. He suggested that Castro had enlisted the underworld elements whom he had caught plotting against him. They purportedly belonged to the Santos Trafficante organization.

Working with Cuban intelligence, they supposedly lined up an ex-Marine sharpshooter named Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been active in the pro-Castro movement. It has been established that Oswald called at the Cuban embassy in Mexico City before the dreadful day in Dallas.

According to Roselli's version, Oswald may have shot Kennedy or may have acted as a decoy while others ambushed him from closer range. When Oswald was picked up, Roselli suggested, the underworld conspirators feared he would crack and disclose information that might lead to them. This would have brought a massive U.S. crackdown on the Mafia.

So Jack Ruby was ordered to eliminate Oswald, making it appear as an act of reprisal against the president's killer. At least this is how the late mobster explained the tragedy in Dallas.

There is no proof, of course, to support Roselli's version. He also modified his story when he was hauled behind closed doors of the Senate Intelligence Committee.
